SEEKING QUALIFIED CANDIDATES

Chief Executive Officer/CEO

AMERIND Risk Management Corporation (AMERIND) is a tax exempt self-funded risk pool created by its member Native American Housing Authorities and Tribally Designated Housing Entities (TDHEs) who are responsible for administering federally funded housing programs for Native American/Alaska Native families. AMERIND provides property, liability, fidelity, and employee injury protection to its members.

AMERIND is currently looking for a qualified candidate to manage and direct the organization toward its primary objectives, based on profit and return on capital. To plan, coordinate, and control the daily operation of the organization through the organization's managers. Also to establish current and long range goals, objectives, plans, and policies. Necessary qualifications include a bachelor's degree in business administration or risk management, with professional insurance designations of CPCU, ARM, CRM or Underwriting. This position will be based in Albuquerque and will require travel throughout the United States. Indian Preference Policy: Preference in filling this vacancy is given to qualified Native American candidates in accordance with the Indian Preference Act of 1934.
